THE BLUE LAWS.

A correspondent desires to know what the blue laws of New England are.

The Kindall's "Travels in America" in 1807,

they are given substantially as now.

These strange prohibitions have long since become obsolete, but as curious specimens of legislation in the early days of New England we reproduce them for the amusement of our readers.

No quaker or dissenter, from the established worship of this dominion, shall be admitted to give a vote for the election of magistrates, or any other officer.

No food or lodging shall be offered to a quaker, separatist or other heretic.

If any person turns quaker, he shall be imprisoned, and not suffered to return, but upon pain of death.

No priest shall abide in the dominion;

he shall be banished, and suffer death on his return. Priests may be seized by any one without a warrant.

No one to cross a river, but with an authorized ferryman.

No one shall run on the Sabbath day, or walk in his garden or elsewhere, except reverently to and from meeting.

No one shall travel, or cook, victuals,

make beds, sweep houses, cut hair, or shave on the Sabbath day.

No woman shall kiss her child on the Sabbath or fasting day.

The Sabbath shall begin at sundown

Saturday.

To pick a ear of corn growing in a neighbor's garden, shall be deemed a theft.

A person accused of trespass in the night shall be judged guilty, unless he clear himself by his oath.

When it appears that an accused has confederates, and he refuses to discover them, he may be racked.

No person shall buy or sell lands without permission of the selectmen.

A drunkard shall have a master appointed by the selectmen, who are to debar him from the liberty of buying and selling.

Whoever publishes a libel on the prejudice of his neighbor, shall sit in the stocks, or be whipped fifteen stripes.

No minister shall keep a school.

Every rateable person, who refuses to pay his proportion to the support of the ministry of the town or parish, shall be fined

by the court £2 and £4 every quarter, until he or she shall pay the rate to the minister.

Men stealers shall suffer death.

Whoever wears clothes trimmed with gold, silver or bone lace, above two shillings by the yard, shall be presented by the grand jurors, and the selectmen shall tax the offenders at £200 estate.

A debtor in prison, swearing he has no estate, shall be let out and sold to make satisfaction.

Whoever sets a fire in the woods, and it burns a house, shall suffer death; and persons suspected of this crime shall be imprisoned without benefit of bail.

Whoever brings cards or dice into this dominion shall pay a fine of $5.

No one shall read common prayer, keep christmas, or saints-day, make mince pies, dance, play cards, or play on any instrument of music, except the drum,

trumpet and jew-harp.

No gospel minister shall join people in marriage; the magistrates only shall join in marriage, as they may do with less scandal to Christ's church.

When parents refuse their children convenient marriages, the magistrates shall determine the point.

The selectmen, on finding children ignorant, may take them away from their parents and put them in better hands, at the expense of their parents.

THE DISRESPECTFUL SON.

For months after month Robert Morehead had been freighting the down ward road, and at last, even his christian parents had almost given up all hope of his redemption.

Several of his companions had been made one of a party, who were to have a grand frolic on a certain night.

Those friends were of frequent occurrence and always ending in disaster. Mr. and Mrs. Morehead were called upon to admit a son so entirely under the influence of liquor that he could hardly stagger into his home.

Occasionally policemen had borne him to his invalid mother, their rough but kindly hearts aching as they saw her silent agony.

This night, as Robert was in his room,

preparing for the party, he heard his mother come to the door and speak his name.

He remained quiet, but in a moment the voice came again calling, "Robert."

Still receiving no answer, she cried, "O my son, won't you listen to your mother?"

Then, in a hard, angry voice, he called,

"I do wish you would go away and leave me alone."

She left him and tottered to her room, calling on her Heavenly Father for help in her great trouble.

Robert joined his friends, and as usual

their frolic became high and boisterous, ending in a drunken reel.

Then, as it was long afternoon, when having somewhat recovered from the effects of the night before, he came down stairs.

The first words which met him were,

"Your mother is dead." He threw himself in a chair, and buried his face in his hands, moaning, "I told her to go away, and she has gone. She can never forgive me. It is too late! too late!"

And the man rose and paced the room in his agony, going over and over the same words, "Too late! too late!"

The days and weeks passed on, but he continually heard that gently voice calling,

"Robert," and the same dreary cry was in his heart.

His opportunity had come, but he had thrown it away, and now it was too late.

O friend, are you not doing the same thing? Do you not hear Jesus' voice so loudly calling to your heart, and are you repelling him? He calls again and again, and you answer, "Go and leave me alone."

He pleads so earnestly, and still you drive him away.

Be careful! for he may leave you, and then it will be too late. And then, though you weep and implore, though you cry continually, your only answer will be, "It is too late."

Oh! come to Jesus now.—Kind Words.

WASHINGTON'S EARLY LOVE.

A letter to the Richmond Enquirer says:

As there seems to be some doubt as to which of the Misses Cary belongs the honor of having refused the hand of George Washington, permit me to refer you to an extract from Bishop Meade's book on "Old Churches and Families of Virginia," page

108, vol. 1: The elder sister of Miss Mary

Cary had married George William Fairfax,

at whose house he was on a visit, when she captivated a young man, who had paid her his addresses. His affection, however, was not returned, and the offer of his hand was rejected by Miss Cary. This young man was afterwards known to the world

as General George Washington, the first president of the United States of America.

Young Washington asked permission of old Mr. Cary to address his daughter before he ventured to speak himself. The reply of the old gentleman was, "If that is your business here, sir, I wish you to leave the house, for my daughter has been accustomed to ride in her own coach."

He subsequently became said that this answer of Mr. Cary to the strapping Wash-

HOW OLD PETER BENNETT WON HIS CASE.

If Alexander H. Stephens should be at home and his mind not absorbed by public affairs, the visitors will find in him one of the best and most prolific anecdotists of the day.

One story—also, that he cannot sit in type to tell it—is the Peter Bennett case.

A Dr. Bennett, doubtless a most excellent man, has sued Mr. Bennett, a farmer, for his bill.

"Little Alex," as Alexander is called

by his friends, told his client, Peter B.,

that the case of service and its value were proved against him in legal form and there was no real defense. But the old farmer insisted that his lawyer should "speak to the case." Mr. Stephens told him that he ought to speak himself if he thought a speech could be made, and was surprised by the result: "I will if Bobby Tombs won't be too hard on me." Mr.

Tombs promised, and Peter Bennett began.

"Gentlemen of the jury, I

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1876.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,

Gen. W. H. Cox,

OF WAKE.

OUR CANDIDATE.

We hoist the name of Gen. Cox for Lieutenant Governor. We do so because he is able, faithful and he is incorruptible; qualifications nowadays rarely united. And we do so for an additional reason, that these very qualifications have made him the special mark for the attacks of his enemies; and a mark for the most violent attack upon individual liberty for the sake of principle that has been made since the days of the Holden Tyranny.

Our candidate for Governor, we leave to the Convention, for we have so many preferences, that we must leave it to others to decide for us.

HARMONY.

We have not for a long time brought the Recorder in connection with matters which disturb the harmony of the Democratic party in Raleigh, and the harmony of the Democratic party. Such things are deplorable. Nevertheless they have been unavoidable. They have been brought about by a repulsion of all harmony except at the price of absolute submission to the will of one man.

A contest has been going on in the Courts at Raleigh, the result of which is to determine the rights of thought, action and independence. We believe it will result in the establishment of those rights, since men for the first time begin to realize the danger of giving over the power to dominate over rights which every man claims to be equally inherent in himself as in others. A revelation in a tide which has flowed without a check for years has set in. It must go on until it settles down to that level safe and happy for all.

The people of Orange have felt the strength of this overbearing current. They set themselves to stem it, and they will do it, because they lose all claim to their old time independence, if they permit any one man to drive or lead them—and this they must feel has been much of their political condition for years past.

Harmony we want, but not harmony at the expense of freedom.

THE BELKNAP CASE.

Three weeks ago the country was electrified with the announcement of the determination of the House of Representatives to demand the impeachment of Belknap, Secretary of War, for charges of corruption and malfeasance in office, fully exposed to the committee a week before, on the testimony of Caleb Marsh. But Marsh, when he got out of the hands of the Committee, made haste to get into Canada, where he remained until last week. Marsh gone, there was no impeachment, for though they had his testimony, he carried documentary evidence which was indispensable. Last week, Marsh was induced to return to Washington under a species of safe conduct, and now the impeachment will go on.

The radicals did hope that the bitter cup would pass from them, for though they turned upon him with bitter malice because he was mean enough to confess, they did hope, that as the chief and almost only witness had gotten out of the way, exposure, involving other and perhaps higher dignitaries, could not be made. Now the trial of Belknap must go on, and then comes the strong assault upon the house which was strong in its privacy, or in the assumed fidelity of its fugitive defenders. Now let us see what the valiant army of Democrats assailants will effect.

March has been more than usually stormy, and its storms more disastrous. Not only in this country, but throughout Europe, and over the seas, have tempests, and snows, and floods swept away the works of men, and laid them prostrate wrecks in the furious track of the aroused fury of nature.

In the South, it is generally believed that all the fruit is killed, and as in the two past years, the truck farmers throw up their arms in despair.

The bill appropriating $165,000 for printing and engraving, with amendments substituting silver for fractional currency, was passed—aye 122, nays 100. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to issue silver coin for the redemption of fractional currency. Coins of $1 will be legal tender for $50. Smaller coin shall be legal tender for sums less than $25.

Gov. Amor who was about to be brought to the bar of impeachment before the Senate of Mississippi, has resigned, and the articles have been withdrawn. Another sign of them came to grief.

The formal impeachment of Belknap has been made at the bar of the Senate.

GEN. W. H. COX.

Arrested, dragged off ignominiously in charge of a petty government mob, arrayed before a still pettier United States official, Gen. Cox, the champion of the Democratic State Executive Committee returns from Washington a triumphant man—triumphant, not from the merits of his prosecution, but from their fears. There was no real charge against him. He was absolutely innocent of any crime or offence. But he was struck at as the representative head of the Democratic party. If he could be sacrificed, then the Democratic party was wounded in a vital point. Persecuted, humiliated as far as malice could effect it, put to the question and harassed with all the vindictiveness of party malignity, he is free, not because of his right, but because of the fears of his enemies. For if the damaging effect of such persecution had not been seen by prudent afterthought—if it had been found that the prostration of General Cox would have raised the fortunes of the Republican party, they, it is certain, no deficiency of evidence, no failure of right, would have saved him.

On the head of Gen. Cox were heaped all the sins of the Democratic party. He was to have been made the vicarious sufferer for a party's offences. He is safe. But shall the Democratic party forget him for the humiliation he was exposed to, for the sufferings he might have undergone? No; let him be the unanimous choice of that party for the office of Lieutenant Governor, and let that party triumphantly elect him.

EDITORS AND READERS.

Good advice is given to editors to keep themselves on a proper footing with their readers, neither trying to soar too high, nor for the sake of a cheap popularity, sinking too low. For the interests of editor and patron are one and the same, both aiming at the same object of a common prosperity. They must not be too wide apart. They must so act that there must be a common bond of sympathy between them. A newspaper must not attempt to soar to such heights that his readers cannot keep up with him nor on the other hand descend to such degradations that they disdain to stoop to his level. The safe middle ground of common sense is the proper medium—a middle ground where common sympathy of thought and subject bring men to a full appreciation of each other. An editor is a teacher, not from the stories of his own wisdom, but from the gathered treasures of the experience of others. Readers are scholars, not as unripe pupils, but as those who have fruits of thought and wisdom laid before them from which to choose, wise, discerning, yet docile and subject to lessons of truth.

Let editors and readers understand these truths—that the one must not presume on the ignorance, the inexperience or the credulity of his reader, nor the other expect what it is not always possible to expect. The press is a great schoolmaster. It is not just that it should be a tyrant. The reader is to some extent a willing pupil. It is not right he should be a petulant or capricious one. Working together, both will better their own conditions, and harmoniously work out satisfactory conclusions.

Secretary Robeson, of the Navy Department, has the investigating committee so warm on his heels that he may soon be standing on the same stool as Secretary Belknap. And as the work of investigation is pushed, none of the Departments may hope to escape with clean skirts. If the President himself escapes it will be because the memory of his military glory will cover him as with a mantle, and shield him from that scrutiny which would lay open the misdeeds of less conspicuous men.

When Senator Bruce concluded day to (March 31st.) his speech of nearly an hour, he was congratulated by both the Democratic and Republican members. His main points were, that the outrages in his State were the work of the White League, a small minority of Democrats, and that peace would certainly come when the negro vote was divided.

Hereafter all prisoners convicted before the Federal Courts will be sent to the Penitentiary of West Virginia instead of to Alabama. This will keep southern culprits in a warmer climate.

The President was too unwell last week to receive company. Oh! I'm sick. I'm sick, he might exclaim with greater emphasis than he did before, when he sees disease attacking all his chosen followers.

The Wilmington Journal records with sadness the death of Col. James G. Green, a well known and highly respected citizen of Wilmington which occurred in Wilmington on Friday last, aged 54.

The Treasury department received one hundred thousand dollars in silver from California on March 31st.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1st.

At last the validity of the enforcement act has been decided upon. Many of the foremost lawyers of the country have claimed that this infamous enactment was a violation of the Constitution of the Country. Two cases have been brought before the Supreme Court and on Monday a decision was rendered. What is known as the Grant Parish case from Louisiana was an indictment against some parties for interfering with and by force depriving certain negroes of the right to peaceably assemble. The court reviewed the relations of the State and Federal Government, to the citizen, showed that under the Constitution, the latter could only protect in these rights that it conferred, and decided that as the right to assemble peaceably was not conferred by the Federal Government but was inherent that it was the duties of the State to protect its citizens and that the Federal Government could not interfere, and prisoners were discharged. The other case was from Kentucky where two inspectors of election were indicted for refusing to permit a colored man to vote. In this case also the prisoners were discharged, the court holding the law unconstitutional. Thus another of the partisan laws, passed to sustain Radicalism in power, has been swept away and the wisdom of the democratic founders of the government in establishing the checks and balances of our system is fully vindicated. The passions excited by the war and played upon by ardent demagogues resulted in enactment of a number of laws which were inimical to the true spirit of our government, but as these are brought before the final tribunal to decide upon their validity, they are brushed from our statute books, as the careful housewife brushes away the dusty spider webs that are drawn in her otherwise well appointed rooms. Even the people, now that time has cooled their anger, and exposed the character of the men who secured this legislation, are prepared to rejoice that there is a tribunal provided by our constitution, whose duty it is to correct the errors of hasty or partisan legislation.

At the last session of Congress a law was passed by both houses, but failed to receive the signature of the President, equalizing bounties. It provided that any soldier, who served in the Union army, and was honorably discharged, should receive a bounty of ($8,661) eight dollars and two thirds for every month spent in the service. All bounties already paid by the government were to be charged as part of this bounty, and thus every soldier would receive precisely the same sum. This bill is again before the house having been favorably reported upon by the Military Committee. It will require an appropriation of about $30,000,000 which will however be spread over several years, and it seems just and fair that it should become a law.

The articles of impeachment against Belknap have been reported by the subcommittee to the full judiciary committee and will soon be presented.

There is no doubt that Belknap will be convicted if the Senate convenes to try him. A large amount of evidence has been collected by the naval committee, showing that the navy department is completely covered with frauds. The judiciary committee have evidence showing the same thing in relation to the department of justice, though it is just to say, that nothing improper has been discovered since the present Attorney-General came into power. The Indian and Pension bureaus of the Interior department are honey combed with steals, and only the treasury department has so far escaped. It is lamentable to think that every branch of our executive departments are so corrupt as had been made them and it is high time that there should be a change—a complete one which can only be obtained by removing the party that has been so long in power.

The Pension agent here has proven a defaulter for $50,000. This is so usual however as to be hardly worthy of remark. The House is now holding night sessions to enable it more readily to dispose of the appropriations bills. The Senate has placed the consular and diplomatic appropriations back to the figures of last year and the republicans there are solidly fighting the reductions proposed by the House.

It is said that among democratic aspirants for the St. Louis nomination, Governor Hendricks is far a head of all his competitors in obtaining the support of the Democratic members of Congress. In fact his friends claim that largely over one half of all the democrats in Congress are his friends. Mr. Blaine is certainly ahead of all his republican rival, in the race for Cincinnati nomination. The failure in the New York Convention to obtain a solid delegation for Denning and the instructions by the Pennsylvania Convention for Hartmann are both considered victories for Blaine, as it is claimed he will receive seventeen votes from New York on the first ballot and all of Pennsylvania after a complimentary vote to Hartmann. The Connecticut election is not in doubt though the Democratic majority will be reduced, by the greenback ticket and the republican vote increased by the addition of many of the temperance vote. Major A. D. Banks Secretary of the Democratic Executive Committee, can furnish campaign documents on request. RESO.

The Wilmington Journal says James H. Harris of color figures as a full blown delegate for the State at large to the Cincinnati Radical National Convention while Major W. A. Smith the probable candidate for his party for Lieutenant Governor is obliged to content himself with the humble position of alternate. Query: Is this north justice? Remembering how the Major's white stomach turned as the negro civil rights bill, this putting him behind a negro looks suspicious. Rather rough on the champion of the white race to make him heir to a negro's old shoes wasn't it?

MONTFORT MCGEE.

A correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says: In canvassing the various candidates mentioned in connection with the approaching State election, we are attracted to the name of the young, active and energetic gentleman, Montfort McGee, of Greensboro, as a suitable candidate to be our Lieutenant Governor, since to provide over our State, Polite and affable in his manners, upright and above suspicion in his dealings, frank and manly in his bearing, there is not a man in the State who possesses in a more eminent degree the qualities that fit him for the important trusts and high duties incident to the office we have mentioned.

The Observer heartily endorses what its correspondent says, and declares Mr. McGee to be a gentleman gifted with a strong mind, possessed of extensive information, an effective speaker, a stalwart patriot and a successful farmer.

The Wilmington Journal says Mr. McGee deserves all of this and more. We know of no man in North Carolina who possesses more of the elements that deserve commendation and respect than Montfort McGee. Born with a good mind, he has improved it by years of close study and careful reading and by travel at home and abroad; a good lawyer and a successful farmer, he has yet found time to attain a rare degree of literary culture; well versed in historical studies, especially those in everything pertaining to the history of his State, he is also thoroughly familiar with the politics of the country, past as well as present. But superior to these all, great in degree and admirable in kind as they are, is the spotless purity of the man's private life.

Those who know Montfort McGee know that in saying this we use not the language of exaggeration.

Washington, March 24.—The Chair laid before the House communications from the District Attorney that Hallet Kilburn was indicted on five counts for refusing to testify before the Committee, and from the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House, stating that the Marshal of the District had called on him for the custody of Kilburn, which he had refused until instructed by the House.

Mr. Glover offered a resolution instructing the sergeant-at-arms not to deliver Kilburn to any one until further orders.

Messrs. New (of Indiana), Hooker (of Mississippi) and Tucker (of Virginia) spoke in favor of this resolution.

The resolution was adopted without taking the yeas and nays.

The report of the conference committee that the House agree to Senate amendment to make the Red-Cloud agency Agency appropriation $150,000 was adopted.

The bill regulating Stevedores' contracts was taken up. Mr. Reagan explained the bill and it went over to Saturday.

The night session was dispensed with on account of the inclemency of the weather.

THE DEATH OF MR. NORWOOD.
The death of Mr. Norwood, a well-known citizen of this city, occurred on the 17th inst. at his residence near Libington, Friday the 17th inst. His illness was very short and his relatives were summoned to his bedside on the day of his death. He was a native of Burke county and a brother of the late Gov. Caldwell.

STATE NEWS.
Says the Charlotte Observer: We are informed by a gentleman who has just arrived here from Western county, that immediately after the storm, the snow lay seven inches deep at Statesville, ten at Morganton and twelve at Old Fort. These varieties in the depth of the snow are a pretty good index to the relative temperature of the localities above named.

THE CONCORD SUNSAYS: We were shown last week by Mr. J. N. Maxwell, a young chicken that has four distinct and separate legs, three eyes, two bills and only two wings. The same gentleman also tells us he has a small kitten that has six legs and two tails. The two extra claws are attached to the nether end where all hind legs belong.

THE BALEIGH BENTLEY SAYS: Tuesday afternoon Addison Cheek, a worthy farmer of Orange county, was robbed of $65, while on his way home. He was in his wagon, with the reins tied over his head, and when opposite St. Mary's school he was approached by a couple of negroes from opposite sides. One of them asked him a question, and he lifted his arms to check his horses the other negro ran his hand into Mr. Cheek's pocket and made off with the $65. It seems that the negro had "shadowed" Cheek from the time he got the money up to the perpetration of the robbery. The robbery took place in daylight and there were a number of wagons a few hundred yards ahead of that of Mr. Cheek's.

ENCLOSURE OF THE COURT HOUSE YARD.
The Commissioners of the County will meet here on Monday next and we beg leave to call their attention to the condition of the enclosure around the Court House yard. The County is said to be free from debt and we learn that large and costly bridges have been built, and it may be some day that the County will be able to erect a wall around the Court House yard. We are sure that all the citizens of Hillsboro and we believe the intelligent and liberal of the county would be pleased to see a plain wall and a permanent enclosure erected by the Board of Commissioners at its next meeting. We say "permanent" because it is good sense and good economy in all public property to do it in a substantial way. Do it so as to stand and grow gray with time. Here we have as fine clay for brick as is to be found anywhere and a good wall may be erected that would stand as long as the building it enclosed. Then too we have excellent brick masons here of our own, who will build material can give us a job that would be an ornament to the County. Town and inspire all with more respect for the place and those who occupy it. Or perhaps better still take down the walls of the jail and use the house for a wall around the Court House and build a substantial prison on the spring lot in the rear. Money is scarce. Our mechanics will work cheap and by all means at once give us a new enclosure and a new jail; and don't let everything look like a "humbled down" and "jauper County."

For the Recorder.
MR. EDITOR:—This morning, as I was going out with my wagon, for the purpose of hauling logs to the saw mill, my attention was attracted by two black dogs, one of which I saw, some distance from where I was. I got off the wagon in double quick time, and ran to the spot, without any weapon, except rocks that I had in my hand. I was armed with myself and I felt the larger one a fatal blow; he soon expired. The smaller one still clinging to his prey, I then gave him a shove across his spine, but he got off without mortal injuries. Not knowing who the dogs belong to, I there offer an apology to the owner of the one that got away without mortal injuries, and request that he will do as I would provided I had a gun.

CENTRAL FIREWORKS, March 29th 1876.
MR. EDITOR:—Your correspondent had the opportunity of an unexpected, though pleasant, ride through this notable region a few days previous. Though having been absent for some time, found things as in former days; and no loss sustained by the absence. The people are ready for the season at hand. Their plows have been repaired, fences rebuilt, matted sharp-pointed, chains mended, seed examined, plant-beds sown and everything ready for the Centennial crop.

Experience shows that early planting is the best, as it gives a better opportunity for excellent cultivation, which is a good condition for crops. Let the plow start as soon as practicable, and take every advantage of the season and weather to put the spring work ahead of a necessary push. Some men are always idle or in a push, simply because they do not begin to prepare for the spring work till they are driven to it by the opening of fine weather or lateness of the season. Nature must be watched if we would utilize her smiles. The hand of the diligent makes the rich, while the slothful is always in a strait.
—JO. CLARK.

THE BLUE RIDGE BLADE: The strange story which I have conveyed to the asylum from the top of the South Mountain will have one hundred and fifty-five feet head a pressure of nearly two hundred pounds to the square inch. The pipes will convey three hundred and fifty thousand gallons per day.

THE NEGRO WHO ROBBED ADDISON CHEEK of this county in Raleigh on Tuesday last is now undergoing preliminary examination, before Mayor Manly, having been arrested on Saturday. It is reported that they are that notorious class who hang about town, who want work, and are always watching chances to break into the Penitentiary. And many of them succeed.

MR. HARRIS having finished the equipment of the Hotel at Durham, threw open his doors to the public last week.

THE OTHER DAY at the saw-mill of Duke Woods, while the miller was on one side of the saw, his dog undertook to reach him by a short cut. The cut was a very short one, for in his haste, he passed close to the saw, which sliced his head off with a neatness that would have delighted the inventor of the Guillotine.

DR. WALKER, W. V. states: "I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Wade's Liver Corrector as a most excellent remedy for Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Liver Complaint in all its forms. I have tested it with universal success."

YOU HAVE NO ESCAPE.
Have you any excuse for suffering with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Is there any reason why you should go on from day to day complaining with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, of the Heart, Heartburn, Watery Stools, Gravel and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, Yellow Skin, Swollen Tongue, and disagreeable breath in the mouth? Coming out of food after eating, Low Spirits, &c. No! It is positively your own fault if you do. Go to Dr. J. O. Walker, and get a bottle of Dr. Wade's Appetizer. For 75 cents your cure is certain, but if you doubt this, get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.

TOBACCO breaks may be engaged every business day this week.

AN APPEAL TO PARENTS.
Parents, do you love your children? Then preserve their health. Next to the blessing of life itself, is the enjoyment of perfect health. How many are stricken down in their infancy, almost without a moment's notice by that insidious disease, Croup, simply through the neglect to be provided with the proper remedy? The tender plant is nipped and withers ere it blossoms. When the little sufferer has short, difficult, hoarse breathing, with a harsh, metallic cough, like coughing through a brass trumpet, there is no time to lose. Begin at once the use of Dr. TUTT'S EXPECTORANT and the disease will readily yield to it. Always have it ready in the house, as this fatal malady requires the promptest treatment. It is very pleasant to the taste, and children take it readily.
